

Fast Company Programme

- + What's the next step for your company's development?
- + What's your investment plan?
- + We can help.

Welcome to the Fast Company Programme
Launching, Monday 2 November, The Lowry, Salford Quays

Northwest Vision and Media is inviting the region's creative and digital businesses to join a panel discussion and find out about

- + accessing loans, securing equity investment, European funding opportunities
- + making themselves investor ready
- + the Fast Company Programme

Panelists include Andy Tate (Pembridge Partners LLP), Andrew Thomas (the green field), (RBS), Steve Salan (Dene Films), Enda Carey (Northwest Vision and Media), Mark Fenwick (MyMahout), and representatives from the Venture Capital community.

Register for the panel discussion and receive a free assessment of your business at <http://investor-readiness.eventbrite.com>

Why should you register?

Every company that registers (by completing a profile) gets a confidential bespoke MyMahout report benchmarking them against their peers and offering solutions to the issues that may be holding back their business. MyMahout software anticipates companies' business needs and presents the best possible directions to access finance.

The Fast Company Programme:

We'll select up to eight companies to join our first ever Fast Company Programme. They will undergo a full business plan review and get help from the Programme Team to realise their unique path to investment readiness.

The Fast Company Programme team is made up of:

Pembridge partners, a London consultancy focused on investor readiness for the digital and creative sector the green field, a consultancy focused on high growth management training.

The programme focuses on assessing your business plan, management team, business strategy and helping you to realise the value of your business and what private equity funding can do for your business. The conclusion will be an opportunity to pitch your business for funding to a group consisting of VC's, banks and other potential investors.
